$100,000,000, shall be guaranteed "principal and interest," by the government of the Unite dStates, these bonds to be issued according as money is actually paid out and expended by the company in the construction of the canal. The government is then to own the capital stock of the company with the exception of twelve millions of it, which is to be retained by the company, and except shares to be delivered to the governments of Nicaragua and Costa Rica.

The importance of this guarantee by the government was demonstrated in a speech by Mr. Frye, of Maine, who undertook to show that the work would, with a guarantee, be fully completed at a cost of $100,000,000, and that its fixed charges would be only $5,000,000 a year, outside of the sinking fund, wherens, without a guarantee, the cost would be not less than $200,000,000, and its fixed charges $14,-000,000 a year.

Mr. Morgan discussed the diplomatic feature of the measure, and said that not one vote which the senate could give would have so much influence on the destinies of the Pacific states as an affirmative vote in favor of the pending bill. The nations of the earth would ascertain from that vote that the Americans were a united people; that they were pro-Americans in every proper sense of the word; that they comprehended the magnitude and majesty of their destinies, and that there was one uniform accord—American institutions were to be under the benign protection of the American people. He appealed to the senate of the United States which had heard the matter discussed time and again to take up the subject and vote upon it after a reasonable time had been given for debate. Let us do our duty, said he, to this generation of men, and not postpone action until some future generation, wiser or better or stronger than we, shall come up and execute this work.

Mr. Stewart inquired in what kind of money the bonds were to be made payable.

One merchant deposited over $10,000 this morning, and others deposited large amounts. They say that they have no fears, and would depos-it all the money they have without the least healthful.

GLADSTONE'S ADVICE YESTERDAY On the Introduction of His Home

Rule Bill for Ireland. EXTRACTS FROM HIS REMARKS.

Parliament House Crowded as It Has Seldom Bean-Several Persons Trodden

Upon in the Rush for Seats.

London, February 13.—Gladstone is in admirable form. From early morning the scene in the palace yard, at Westminster, has been one of the most animated descrip-tion with groups assembling to watch the arrival of the members. P. J. Foley, arrival of the members. P. J. Foley, nationalist, member for Counimora, the first to arrive, closely followed by David Sheeby, secretary of the first national federation. When noon arrived, the inner lobby was packed with members and the approaches were crowded. When the doors pened there was a disorderly rush for the seats, members shouting and struggling like a mob of excursionists on a bank holiday, several being thrown to the floor. The veteran, Caleb Wright, eighty-two years of age, was knocked down and trampled on before rescued by John Burns, the vigorous labor representative.

The melee settled down at last and all got safely in their seats. Every seat in the house, except the government bench, was occupied. The struggle for seats produced the oddest mixture of the members. The seating capacity of the house is entirely too small to accommodate even the members, and the time-honored custom of members setting together according to their political predilections was today honored more in the breach than observance. Radicals and laborists sat cheek by jowl. That bluest of blue tones, Colonel Saunderson, champion of the Ulstermen, to whom home rule is as a red flag flung in the face of a bud, found himself sitting among the warmest supporters of Gladstone's scheme. Charles Tanner, anti-Parnellite member, representing the middle dirision of Cork, was mixed up with the tory route below the gangway, and the whole political appearance of the house was changed by the commingling of the parties. house, except the government bench,

The rush to get into the galleries was

The rush to get into the galleries was equal to the stringcle to enter the legislative chamber. All the galleries were packed to their fullest capacity.

Justice Harlan, of the United States supreme court, had a seat in the diplomatic gallery, accompanied by Minister Lincoln. Scores of other noted strangers were in the gallery. They were greeted by Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty, and by Roseberry, secretary of state for foreign affairs, both of whom found themselves unable to gain access to the peers' gallery.

The noise in the house drowned the initial business, which was conducted almost in dumb show. The preliminaries to the event of the day were dispatched in about half an hour.

Gladstone entered the house of commons at 3:30 o'clock. Every liberal and Irish nationalist stood up and greeted him with prolonged cheers. When Gladstone rose to introduce the home—rule bill there was another demonstration, so carnest, so enthusiastic and irrepressible, that several minutes elapsed before he could be heard.

Gladstone's Speech.

Gladstone's Speech.

Mr. Gladstone spoke in a clear, strong and resonant voice until 6 o'clock. The following are extracts from his speech: "I may without impropriety remained the house that the voices which usually pleaded the cause of Irish self-government in Irish affairs have within these walls during the last seven years been almost entirely mute. I return, therefore, to the period of 1886 when a proposition of this kind was submitted on the part of the government of that day, and beg to remind the house of the version then taken by all the promoters of their measures.

"We saw that we had arrived at the point, in our transactions with Ireland, where two roads parted. You have, we said, to choose one or the other. One is the way of Irish autonomy according to the constructions I have just referred to; the other is the way of coercion. That is the other is the way of coercion. That is our contention. It will be the recollection of the house how that contention was most stoutly and largely denied. It was said over and over again by many members opposite, 'We are not coercionists; we do opposite, 'We are not coercionists; we do not adopt that alternative and neither can we adopt it.' (Ministerial cheers.)

"That assertion of theirs was undoubtedly sustained by proposals, especially from the dissentient liberals, of various plans dealing with Irish affairs. Those plans, though they fell entirely short in principle and in the scope of Irish self-government, yet were of no trivial or mean importance. They went far beyond what has heretofore been usually proposed in the way of local self-government for Ireland."

nas heretotore been usually proposed in the way of local self-government for Ireland."

"Well, what has been the result of the dilemma as it was then put forward on this side of the house and repelled by the other? Has our contention, that the choice lay between autonomy and coercion been justified or not? (Liberal cheers.) What has become of each and all of those important schemes for giving Ireland self-government in the provinces and giving her even a central establishment in Dublin, with limited powers? All vanished into the air, but the reality remains. The roads are still those of autonomy or coercion. The choice lay between them and the choice made was to repel autonomy and embrace coercion. You cannot always follow coercion in an absolutely uniform method. In 1886, for the first time, coercion was imposed on Ireland in the hope of a permanent law added to the statute book. This state of things constituted an offending against the harmony Montgomery, Ala., February 13.—(Special.)—The two houses of the general assembly adjourned after a short session today to accept the invitation of the Louisville and Nashville to take a free ride to Mobile to take in the mardi gras festivities. suaded that they will not alter back again to the sentiments of their own ancestors and with their own blood and their own people form one, in noble glorious unity."

Mr. Glaistone showed how England's majority in 1886 of 211 against home rule had declined now to 71, and asked who would guarantee the permanence of the opposition of the romainder.

He then ask of the indulgence of the house while giving an account of the bill, of which he would present only the salient points. "It would be remembered," he said, "that the bill of 1886 laid down five propositions as cardinal principles, to which he had endzavored to closely adhere. A change there was, but not a trenehant change," he declared, "from the principles of 1886. The object of the bill remained as in 1886, to establish a legislative body in Dublin for the conduct of both legislation and administration in Irish, as distinct from imperial affairs. (Cheers.)

The limiting of the conditions which were then observed and have since so far as we were able to 30, been zealously and closely observed, were these: "We were to do nothing inconsistent with imperial unity. Of this I will say—whatever our opponents may say—that, so far as our convictions and intentions are concerned, they would be but feebly stated by being couched in the declaration that we do not mean to impair it. We wash to sive it greater intensity than it has every yet possessed. First, then, imperial unit is observed and equality of all kingdoms would be an equitable repartition of imperial changes; fourtly, any and every practicable provision for the protection of minorities would be included. The plan proposed ought to be such as to present the necessary characteristics of a real and continued settlement."

Explaining the Bill.

Explaining the Bill.

Explaining the Bill. Explaining the bill in detail, Mr. Gladstone said: "In the first place we have made it the desire to meet what we thought no unreasonable demand for the express mention of the supremacy of the imper parliament. There were two methods which that might be done. It might be done by a clause; it might be done in the preamble. We have chosen the preamble as worthier and better, for if it were done by a clause it would be too much in the character of a mere enactment. It is not necessary to say many words for such a purpose. Our words are:

"'Whereas, It is expedient without impair ing or restricting the supreme authority of parliament, and then the preamble goes on to declare the creation of an Irish goes on to declare the creation of an Irish legislature. Power is granted to the Irish legislature which consists, first of all, of the legislature council; secondly, of a legislative assembly, empowered to make laws for the peace, order and good government of Ireland in respect to matters exclusively to Ireland or to a part thereof. That power is subject to a double limitation. First of all it is subject to necessary and obvious limitations imposing certain incapacities on the Irish parliament, including all that relates to the crown, regency, or pacities on the Irish parliament, including all that relates to the crown, regency, or vice royalty. The subjects of peace and war, public defense, treaties and foreign relation, dignities, titles, isw and treason do not belong to the Irish legislature. The law of alienage does not belong to it, nor everything tint belongs to the external trade, coinage and other subsidiary subjects. Other incapacities are imposed similar to those contained in the bill of 1886. These provided for the security of religious freedom, the safeguard of characters, and for the security of personal freedom, in which we endeavored to borrow one of the modern amendments to the American constitution.

ern amendments to the American consistation.

"There coming to exclusive powers, we retain the vice royalty of Ireland, but we divest it of the party character heretofore borne by making the appointment run six years, subject to the revoking power of the crown. Then, also, the post is freed from all religious disability. The Irish representation in the imperial parliament is fixed at eighty members." Mr. Gladstone put both sides of the question of these members yearing an all questions.

representation in the imperial parameters, is fixed at eighty members." Mr. Gladstone put both sides of the question of these members voting on all questions.

"It would," he said, "be a great anomaly if these eighty Irish members should come here continually to intervene in questions purely and absolutely British. If some large question or controversy in British affairs should then come up, causing a deep and vital avering of the two great parties in this house, and the members of these parties knew that they could bring over eighty members from Ireland to support their views, I am afraid a case like that would open a possible door to wholesale, dangerous political intrigue. ('Hear!' My colleagues found themselves not well able to face a contingency of that kind. They insected in the bill limitations on the voting powers of the Irish members to exclude them, first, from voting on a bill or motion expressly confined to Great Britain; second, from voting on the voting on a vote or appropriation of money otherwise than for the imperial service; fourth, from voting on any motion or resolution exclusively affecting Great Britain.

"The whole subject is full of thorns and brambles, but our cbject is the autonomy and self-government of Ireland in all matters properly Irish. The Irish people certainly did not raise the difficulty to which I have just alluded—the retention of Irish members in the house. This is a secondary matter in their eyes, and ought not to interfere with the principal aim. In the members in the house. This is a second-ary matter in their cyes, and ought not to interfere with the principal aim. In the face of the feeling that a shade of uncer-tainty still nangs over the question of re-tention of Irish members, we have affixed to the paragraph concerning this question the words: 'Excepting and until parlia-ment shall determine coming financial leg-islation.'

"I wish to supply the key note to the financial part of legislation. That key-note is to be found in the provision included in our plans from the first, and wisely and

"I wish to supply the key note to the financial part of legislation. That keynote is to be found in the provision included in our plans from the first, and wisely and generously acceded to by Ireland through her representatives—that there is to be but one system of legislation for all kingdoms. As far as external things are concerned, that will be found to entail very important consequences. It has guided us to the conclusion, at which we have arrived, of unity of commercial legislation for the three kingdoms. This includes customs and excise duties, postofices and the telegraph. By adopting this key-note we can attain to most valuable results and will be likely to avoid the clashing friction of agents of the imperial and agents of the Irish government. We can make, under cover of this proposal, a larger and more liberal transfer to treland in the management of her affairs than we could have made if we had proceeded on any other principle. We hope to escape, in this way, all collection in the interior of Ireland of any revenue whatever by imperial authority. The principle to which we are bound to give effect in Ireland is: Ireland has to bear a fair share of imperial expenditure." ("Hear!" Hear!") Concluding, Gladstone said: "I wall now release the house from the painful consideration of details, which it has pursued with unexampled patience. I have tried to convey the fundamental conception and spirit of the scleme. I submit that the plan may be imperfect, but I hope it will receive impartial consideration. Although there may be friendly and unfriendly criticism, I hope I shall not give offence when I express my deep conviction that a blan closely resembling this, if not the recent proposal of an identical legislative chamber for Ireland, may shortly become law. There is one risk, and that is if controversy is unduly and unwarrantedly prolonged the demand for self-government in Irish affairs may become a demand for the repeal of the union, and the re-estblashment of dual supremacr in these islands. Brunswick in the Near Future.'

Brunswick, Ga., February 13.—(Special.)
There is a possibility that the United States flagship Newark may soon visit Brunswick. This vessel is to bring from Italy the papal exhibit for the world's fair.

One of the officers of the Newark is a friend of Mr. A. I. Branham. Yesterday the latter gentleman received a letter from the former dated Smyrna, Turkey, December 29, 1892, stating that the Newark would take on board the papal exhibit at Naples this month and would then sail for the United States. The officers of the Newark desire to touch either at Savannah or Brunswick on their homeward voyage They. of course, cannot suggest such a thing to the navy department but if Brunswick's board of trade would do so through Congressman Turner it would be ordered to visit this city.

A visit from the Newark would be a notable event. The exhibit she will bring will be of very great interest and her presence at Brunswick would draw large crowds to the city. The board of trade will probably move in the matter.

TRYING THE FUSES. Captain Rapieff Watches Experiments with

Captain Rapleff Watches Experiments with His Fuse.

Port Royal, S. C., February 13.—The question of the efficiency of the Rapieff fuse is an important on board of the Vesuvius just now. The lelsure afforded by a wet and dreary Sunday failed to satisfactorily settle the mooted question of whether the fuses had worked during the last two days' trials with gunpowder shells. Captain Rapieff stoutly maintained that in each instance the fuses have exploded. He admits that it is more than probable that the gun cotton primers did not detonate the gunpowder charge, but is inclined to ridicule the idea that the fuse itself failed to perform its functions. It is generally believed that the board, on the otner hand, does not think that the fuse exploded and this view of the matter is accepted by many of the unofficial observers of the tests.

The question is, however, thrown into greater obscurity by an incident of today's work. The board took fifteen pounds of gunpowher, lowered it ten fathoms below a buoy an had it exploded by electricity. No smoke was observable after the explosion and there were no surface indications which could be seen at a distance equal to that occupied by the Wahnetta in reference to the shell fired Saturday. This will strengthen Captain Rapieff's claim that all the 2 fuses have proved efficient. This same experiment was tried with powder at seven and two fathoms submersion and the same results were obtained in each cass.

This was practically the only using of much importance that was done today. Captain Rapieff took one of his fuses on the naval station dock and in the presence of the board dropped it into six fathoms of water. A cord was attached and the fuse was recovered in order to see if the shock of the fall would be great enough to throw the ball from its springs and explode the fulminite cap which ignites the powder train. In neither of the two attempts was the experiment successful. The fuse was the experiment successful. The fuse was the open on the dock from an elevation of eight or ten feet. This likewise failed. But the cap of the latter exploded when the fuse was dropped on the dock from an levation of three feet. It will be remembered that the shock from a projectile falling in the water when fired from guns is greater than that given by any of today's tests.

Tomorrow actual tests with high explosives will be made. Three shells will be loaded with thirty pounds of gun cotton each. A small charge is used to avoid any possible accident from the premature explosion of these shells.

The officers of the Philadelphia will return of these shells.

The officers of the Philadelphia will return the courtesy of the clitzens of Port Roya and Beaufort by giving an evening danc on that vessel tomorrow afternoon.

New Orleans, February 13.-His Royal Majesty Rex, escorted by dignitaries of carnival court, arrived at 3 o'clock p. m., at the foot of Canal street. His majesty left the royal flotilla at the fort, and came up the river on the royal yacht Galveston. His majesty was greeted by thousands of loyal subjects who had assembled on the levee to do him honor. His royal highness came ashore amid the shouts of the multitude, the booming of artillery and the whistling of every steamer in port, without regard to nationality. A procession was quickly formed and the royal cortege proceeded to the city hall where the keys of the city were delivered to his beloved majesty. The pro-cession then proceeded to th royal palace where his majesty graciously received his loyal subjects.

Tonight, Proteus and his Krewe appeared in one of the most magnificent pageants seen for years. The subject was "Klelevala Depicting the Mythology of Finland." The first car was the chariot of Proteus, and then followed the banner car, "Rival Min strels," "Daughters of the Sun and Moon," 'Hidden Treasure," "Rainbow Maid," "For "Hidden Treasure," "Rainbow Maid," "For-ing Sampo," "God of the Forest," "Castle of Honeyland," "Pleiades," "Deathland," "Magic Barge," "Evil Principle," "Daugh-ter of the Fog," "Maiden of Honeyfields," "Ilmaridan's Wedding Feast," "Birth of Harp," "Water Castle," "Sky God," and

'Polar Star."
The effects of ligt were made as much use of as the art of the painter and the wealth of costume and deceration, and the wealth of costume and deceration, and the entire pageant was a triumph for the youngest of the great carnival organization.

After the parade a ball was given at the French opera house and the maskers were grouped into a tableaux. The queen was Miss Virginia Nicholls, daughter of ex-Governor Francis T. Nicholls, who is now chief justice of the supreme court.

After the tableaux Protons and three of the leading knights crossed the floor and joined the queen and maids of honor and led the march of the maskers, who chose beautiful maids from the assemblage for partners. The maids of honor were Missea Cecil E. de Funtes, Stella de Meruelle, and Ruth Leeds.

Cecil E. de Funtes, Stella de Meruelle, and Ruth Leeds.

The queen was presented with a very handsome breastpin of gold, set with pearls and diamonds. The design was the monogram of the Krewe of Proteus, with swans upholding a gemmed crown. The presents of the maids of honor were of similar designs in frosted gold. The king of the carnival this year is Captain John Poitevent, one of Mississippi's leading lumbermen, and president of the East Louisana Lumbermen's Association.

The Celebration at Mobile. Mobile, Ala., February 13.-The carnival elebration began here today with the arricelebration began here totaly with the arrival of Emperor Felix and his household. They were brought up the bay on the revenue steamer Forward and saluted with guns by that steamer. Whey they arrived on shore the emperor was given the key of the city by Mayor J. C. Rich, and there followed a parade through the principal streets in which the municipal departments, military and Knights of Pythias participated. Tonight the Mystic Krewe of Myrth made a display with eight floats illustrating, in a beautiful manner, the rhyme of "Ye Ancient Mariner," followed by a ball at the Princess theater. More visitors were present than at any previous carnival in years. Members of the general assembly, ninety in number, with fifty ladies, arrived on a special train from Montgomery tonight and are guests of the city.

Ministers in Chicago Had at a Meeting During Which Lynching Was Discuss

Chicago, Ill., February 13.-(Special.)-The regular meeting of the Pastors' Alli-ance of the First Methodist church today was characterized by outbursts of anger, eloquence and abuse. Those present work-ed themselves into a delirium over the introduction of a resolution endorsing Governor Hogg's condemnation of the burning at the stake of the negro Smith, at Paris, Texas, a few days ago for the fiendish murder of a child. The resolution stated that Smith was tortured to death because he was a

"It was not because he was a negro," shouted Rev. Mr. Leach, of the Paulina street church, jumping to his feet, and angrily pulling his black Texan mustache. "It was because of the crime he committed, and he got his deserts. He was treated quite "No! no!" "Shame!" Hush!" Shame!"

The Hawaiian commissioners will have another conference with Secretary of State Foster tomorrow, probably in the morning, before the cabinet meeting. It is probable that the proposed treaty of annexation and the president's message transmitting it to the senate will be ready at that time for submission to the cabinet for consideration. It is said, however, thas they will not be sent to the capitol until after the arrival of letters and dispatches from Minister Stevens and other officials, which reached San Francisco last Thursday on the Australia. This mail is due in Washington, barring delays, tomorrow, evening. out a personal conference.

Many matters of detail are constantly coming up for discussion, some of which will find no place in the treaty, but be left for settlement under questions of the administration and government. The principal financial item is that of the bounty on sugar. The Hawaiians naturally want the present law to apply to their crop, but are not insisting upon this point very strenuously, being convinced that the bounty provision of the tariff law will not be retained long enough to cover the next sugar crop of the islands, which does not begin to come in until December. Aside from the sugar bounty Mr. Thurston, of the Hawaiian commission, estimates, without having made any calculation on the subject that the loss of recause to the islands by annexation will be just about equal to the amount of expenditures of which they will be relieved.

Propriations for Their Contederate Home.

Raleigh, N. C., February 13.—(Special.)—
The legislative committee on the confederate soldiers' home today decided unanimously to report favorably the bill appropriating $8.000 annually for the maintenance of the home and $2,000 this year for improvements. The home has over seventy inmates.

The legislature today tabled the bill to require railroads to furnish transportation facilities to any express company which may apply for them. It is asserted tonight that the Wilmington and Weldon Railway Company will not accept a proposition of the state that it shall surrender its exemption from taxation and pay back taxes for the years and that the matter will go into the courts. The amount of back tax found to be due for three years is $95,000.

Death of Hon. John F. Dunn.

Jacksonville, Fla., February 12.—Hon. John F. Dunn, of Ocala, died at noon today of Bright's disease after an illness of many weeks He was born in South Carolina in 1844, but had lived in Florida since 1852. He was soldier in the confederate army, and since the close of the war had held many public offices. As a trader and banker, he had amused a large fortune ten years ago, but in 1880, upon the discovery of phosphate deposits near Ocala, he quietly began the developing of the industry and is reported to have made two or three million dollars in 1891. He was a candidate for United States senator before the democratic caucus against Wilkinson. Call, but withdrew from the contest early. He was probably the most wealthy man in the state, and one of the most liberal and public-spirited. Business will be suspended in Ocala tomorrow in respect to his memory.

Dahlonega, Ga., February 13. (Special.)—
Late Saturday evening Master Price Charters while playing with an ax accidently cut and badly scarred the forehead of little Nannie McAfee, the four-year-old daughter of ex-Senator McAfee, of this place. It seems that little Charters was making a lick with the ax when the little girl ran up to him just a time to receive the lick just above the right eye. time to receive the highest the eye.

The accident occurred in the backyard of the residence of Mr. McAfes, where the children were playing.

Dr. H. C. Whelche was called and dressed the wound and pronounced it painful but not dangerous, it being only a flesh wound. Later reports say the child is getting along well and the wound will soon heal.

The County Commissioners

The county commissioners.

The county commissioners met this morning and accepted the state bond of Tax Collector Albert Jones in the sum of $50,000. His country home for $25,000 had been appraised and accepted some time ago. Mr. Jones is one of Macon's most excellent and highly esteemed young men, and makes a splendid official. The commissioners decided also to move the voting precinct of Rutland district from Walden to Whitesides. Due citation will be made of the contemplated change, but the commissioners do not apprehend any serious opposition to the change.

An Athens Doctor Sued for $20,000 for Alleged Malpractice,

AND IN TURN SUES FOR $25,000.

-Minor News from Athens and the Vicinity Thereof.

Athens, Ga., February 13.—(Special.)— There will be a suit, or rather two suits, called in the superior court of Jackson county this week behind which there lies story the details of which are at once in teresting and unfortunate.

These suits are of especial interest to Athens from the fact that a leading young physician of the city will figure as one of the leading participants.

One is a suit for $20,000 damages against

Dr. A. C. Holliday, of this city, brought by Mrs. Thurman, of Jackson county, for the death of her husband, which she charges was due to malpractice.

The other is a suit for damages in the sum of $25,000 brought by Dr. Holliday against Dr. DeLaperriere, of Hoschton, Jackson county, for circulating the report for Mr. Thurman's death.

The history of the case dates back one year. In February, 1892, Dr. Holliday was called to attend Mr. Thurman, who had some kind of trouble on the lip. Dr. Holliday pronounced the place on the lip car-buncle and treated it as such. After attend-ing Mr. Thurman for about ten days the ing Mr. Thurman for about ten days the patient's family became dissatisfied and called in Dr. DeLaperriere, a relative, to advise on the case. Dr. DeLaperriere at one denied that the sore was a carbuncle and said that it was mercurial poison the effect of salivation caused by Dr. Holliday's treatment and at once demanded the latter physician's dismissal. Dr. Holliday heard of this and the next day had Drs. Smith & Hood, two of the leading physicians of Jefferson, call on Mr. Thurman and pass on his disease and the treatment. These practitioners, so it is said, pronounced the trouble a carbuncle and declared the treatment of Dr. Holliday strictly proper. Dr. DeLaperriere denied this and demanded that no other physicians be admitted to the sick perriere denied this and demanded that no other physicians be admitted to the sick chamber or he would further refuse to attend the patient. It is related in connection with the story that so closely were these instructions carried out that sentinels were placed on guard to see that no man of medicine except Dr. DeLaperriere was allowed to enter the house.

Some time in the early part of May the patient died. Dr. Delaperriere did not nestate, so it is alleged in the court declarations, to say boldly and emphatically that the death of Thurman was caused by salivation brought on by murcury administered by Dr. Holliday and that there was no such disease as carbuncle on the line. known to medical practice. Acting on this Mrs. Thurman filed a suit for $20,000 against Dr. Holliday.

Dr. Holliday.

Di. Holliday then, in his own defense, commenced suit for $25,000 against Dr. DeLaperriere for defamation of character. Both suits are for trial Wednesday at

Who the Principals Are.

Dr. A. C. Holliday, against whom the suit for malpractice is pending, is a prominet young practitioner in whom public confidence is very strong. He is a graduate of the medical department of the university of Georgia, class '84. He is confident of his complete exoneration before the court and public, as he is already exonerated by the best medical authority.

He claims the charges of Dr. DeLaperriere so injured his practice that he was compelled to leave his home and move to Athens. The public here has implicit confidence in Dr. Holliday and consider him an able and worthy physician.

Dr. Holliday and consider him an able and worthy physician.

Dr. DeLaperriere is well known as a medical man and a man of considerable means in Jackson county, where his father had practiced before him for many years.

Tom Farmer's Trial. Tom Farmer, who recently killed Governor Hunter in Jackson county, was put on trial at Jefferson today, and the case will attract a great deal of attention, owing to the prominence of the parties and the sensational details of the killing.

To Be Tried Arain.

To Be Tried Again.

It is given out by the attorneys for W. P. Briggs, who was remanded to jail Saturday without the privilege of bail by Justices Foster, Brown and Bradbury, will apply to Judge Hutchens, in charge of this circuit for bail, and the case will probably be fleard Friday, at Jefferson, where the fudge is now holding court.

Justice J. F. Foster, who was the chief justice before whom Briggs was tried last week, has been highly complimented by both lawyers and the public on his able rulings and decisions in the trial. Justice Foster has only been in office a few days and this was the first case he was ever called to preside over. One leading Atlanta attorney, who was present at the trial, said Judge Foster was the best justice of the peace he ever saw. The able little justice has a bright future before him.

The Y. M. C. A. Convention.

The Young Men's Christian Association convention for the state of Georgia that has been in session here for several days, closed last night and the meeting of secretaries was held today. At the secretaries' meeting today the following resolution was unanimously adopted and its disposition ordered according to subject matter directions:

"In view of the present determined struggle to reverse the action of congress which required the closing of the world's Columbian exposition in Chicago on the Sabbath day, this convention of young men puts itself on record as decidedly opposed to any such change, and hereby appeals to all the honored representatives of Georgia in the United States senate and the house of representatives to stand unflinchingly against this unnecessary attempt to repeal the noble action of congress, and thereby maintain the historic American Sabbath, and its principles, the guarantee of our national liberty, and the Sabbath rest for her laboring classes."

A great deal of money was raised to carry on the work in the state and the convention in every way was pronounced the most successful ever held in Georgia.

Death of a Good Woman.

Villa Rica, Ga., February 13.—(Special.)

Mrs. W. P. Stone died at her residence here Friday evening at 11 o'clock, and was buried yesterday at Pleasant Grove cemetery by the side of her parents, Rev. M. A. Williams officiating. She leaves a devoted husband and eleven affectionate and obedient children to mourn her death. Mrs. Stone was a good woman, and as a mother she was a success, as the character of her children will verify. As a wife she was a helpmeet in the true sense of the word. She has lived the life of a Christian. She has been an invalid for several years, but bore her affliction with that Christian fortitude that proved her religion, and in her death she died the death of the righteous.

Peculic with what it was at the time of Swift, when Irish ascendency in parliament begred to be admitted to the British parliament, and was refused, or with what it was in the beginning of the century immediately after the union, when Irish voters were trooped to the polls for the simple purpose of recording their votes in order to return their landlords to paliament. We have concluded that we have before us now a different state of things. Ireland has on her side the memory of vast victories, earned by the swent of labor, but really earned and recorded on her behalf. Ireland has mighty sympathles. She requires this larger and this strong island. She has obtained the suffrage of Scotland and the suffrage of Wales and in the short space of seven years she has changed a majority of more than two hundred against her in England to one-third that dumber. She was stinted in the franchise and the means of representation. Now she possesses a most extended franchise with most perfect protection. Her remaining objects she has not yet attained, but she looks forward to the attainment of them with more means in aer hands. One other source of strength she has—a moderation of her demands. She has ever since 1883, if not before, but unequivocally and nationally since, abandoned the whole argument that perhaps she was entitled to make on the subject of the act of union. She has asked you to save for yourselves every imperial power. She has consented to accept the house of commons and the naiversal supremacy of the empire. In return, she has asked you only that she have the management of her own affairs which reason and justice combined with the voice of her people. I hope will so move this nation, that it shall be awarded her. WILL OF CAPTAIN REYNOLDS.

It Has Been Admitted to Probate Before

Ordinary Calhoun.

The will of the late Captain J G. Reynolds, who died a few days ago in Savannah, Ga., was filed in the ordinary's office yesterday morning.

Captain Reynolds was a man of considerable property and his estate will probably amount to as much as $125,000. A large part of the estate is in lands that are located in this and the adjoining county of DeKalb. The bulk of the property is left to Mr. Fletcher Reynolds, of Marietta, Ga., and $10,000 goes to the widow of the deceased. Captain Reynolds was a business man of acknowledged talent and was recognized as a man of weighty influence in all matters of finance and trade. While spending his winters in Savannah his summer residence was in this city and he looked upon Atlanta as his home. The mother of Captain Reynolds is living at Marietta, Ga., with her son, Fletcher, and is at present in her eighty-sixth year.

within bounds to say that the great of the farmers of the United States w a good road and do not know what road that is a morass in spring, a in summer, a series of ruts and ridges tiff in autumn, and a slough whenever a thaw in winter is to them the means of rural communication. If means of rural communication. If and known and used good roads they not tolerate the existing roads for a but because they do not, they will go ulescing in the existing country roads pathy that is born of ignorance, the is some truth in the above; but rule, the farmers of Georgia, who needlessly suffered from had roads. sly suffered from bad roads, should know, the value of good trouble is in the fact that we system of road-working; whatis done is generally in a spasterest in the good roads question in Georgia, but we fear that, if the work is not systematized, but little practical benefit will result Money can be very profitably invested in country roads, and as soon as the farmer sees and understands this, he will set to work in the right way and benefit himself and the state.

There are a dozen or more co Georgia that have first-class roads. Why cannot all have them?

A Voice from Missouri.

The legislature of Missouri has been onsidering a measure making it possible for a creditor to collect from an emp wages due an employe, and this fact has caused The St. Louis Republic to enter into an examination of the grounds on which the state proceeds in the matterthe principle on which the state is supposed to base its interference as a col-lector of debts. Our contemporary, without mincing matters, traces the whole procedure back to barbarism. At one time it was held that the state had the right to deprive the debtor of his liberty by imprisonment if he would not or could not pay his just debts. Georgia was settled by men fres from debtors' prisons, but it was not so very long ago that imprisonment for debt was common in this state. It is still the law in New York, unless it has been lately repealed, so that the great Empire State is not so far ahead of the African villages where the debtor, unable to pay, is turned over to the creditor as a slave. It would seem then that through the medium of some of our laws we can reach out and touch the rankest bar-

Our St. Louis contemporary sees in the carnishment laws which the Missouri legslature is discussing a survival of the barbaric theory that the body of the debtor belongs to the creditor, or to the state, which represents the creditor, until the debt is satisfied. "Hence," says The Republic, "we have this theory of garnishment by the state—the theory that, even if the state refuses to capture the debtor and hold him as a slave in bonds until he pays, it is the state's duty all the more, because of his refusal, to act as an overseer or steward for the creditor, taking away the debtor's earnings and turning them over to the creditor as soon as possible. This is no change at all from the principle that the debtor ought to be the creditor's property until the debt is paid, for the man whose earnings are forcibly controlled by another i that other's slave."

The whole question is of great interest. It is a many-sided one and it will be long before the last word is said.

The Appreciation of Gold-What I Means.

On various occasions quite recently and in the past The Constitution has called attention to the disastrous results at-tendant or the constant increase in the value of gold—to the ceaseless enlargement of debts and interest-to the crushing and merciless grind upon those who epend on the products of the earth to pay their debts.

The goldolators and their organs at the north and east have satisfied themselves up to the present time with broad and blatant denials of the fact that gold has appreciated in value. Yet the fact is so plain that it is hardly necessary to argue t. Why argue with a farmer who knows that a debt which he could formerly pay with one bale of cotton now calls for two

We do not propose to argue the matter now, but merely call attention to some recent statements made by The Financial News of London, one of the organs of Lombard street. it is, curious that a fact which American financiers (so-called) deny should meet prompt recognition in the very bowels as it were of mono-metallism. "What is to be the ultimate fate of silver?" says The London Financial News, "is not, however, the main matter of immediate concern. The interest of everybody is centered just now in a far more urgent question, although one not disconnected with the fall in silver-namely, the appreciation of gold." The Financial News goes on to declare that "it is the continual, ceaseless, resolute competition for gold that is causing all the mischief—depressing values, hindering trade, killing agriculture and threatening the world with consequences which only the willfully blind refuse to see. If there is one incontrovertible and dominant fact in the situation, it is that the gold production of the world does not keep pace with the currency needs of the constantly increasing populations of the world."

These are strong and true words so strong that we feel impelled to explain again that they are not uttered by any "silver inflationist" at the south or west but by a single gold standard organ at the headquarters of monometallism-The Financial News of London. How is it that the London editor has the boldness to announce a fact that is fatal to his theory and policy, while American goldolators angrily deny its existence? We leave the discussion of this question to those who have the patience to waylay the organs of goldolatry and try to catch them telling the truth.

There are whispers that those who manage the financies of India are considering the propriety of demonetizing silver and erecting the single gold standard there. This would mean a new demand for gold, and would simply add to the grinding process that is destroying the productive and commercial prosperity of the world. The Financial News of London is afraid that the American republic will sell its silver at a sacrifice and enter into the scramble for gold regardless of the ordinary considerations of profit or loss. This is what the money power is driving at, and this is why it has been moving heaven and earth to secure the unconditional repeal of the silver act of 1890; but they will not succeed. The people whose prosperity is at stake will have more real strength in the new congress than they have in the present body, and if their representatives remain true to the obligations they have assumed and the pledges they have made, the repeal of the silver law will mean the substitution of a law which more completely recognizes silver as money or as a basis for currency notes. Commenting on the practical results of the repeal of the silver law here, followed by the inevitable scramble among the nations of the earth for a difficiency of gold

Probably England would be able to hold her own; but that is not the point. A general insufficiency of the standard metal would put up money rates, disturb confidence, and paralyze trade. There would probably be a general convulsion, with economic consequences such as no one can very clearly foresee. It is obvious that anything which tends to increase the scarcity of gold must further appreciate its value, and any further appreciation of value must react upon the prices of commodities with disastrous effect. The position is already quite serious enough. Short-sighted optimists may flatter themselves that commercial conditions are going to improve; they will not improve much until these currency troubles are removed out of the way. Prices of agricultural produce are already so low that agriculture as a trade is threatened with extinction in England. The cotton industry can only maintain itself, paradoxical though it may sound, by enforced periods of idleness. Our shipping trade is in a deplorably bad condition, and the central plyot of all these evils is the resound, by enforced periods of idleness. Our shipping trade is in a deplorably bad condition, and the central pivot of all these evils is the re-ium—the comparative scarcity of gold.

The situation here is not as bad as if is in England, but it is rapidly approaching that point. The country is more expansive and more productive than England, and the average man is more pros perous here than he is there; but for these very reasons the results of the continued appreciation of gold will be more serious here and will be more seriously resented by the people who, after all, control the politicians.

There is one fact connected with the appreciation of gold that no thoughtful person can have failed to observe (and that even the thoughtless will perceive before very long)-namely, that all the conditions affecting the movements of gold have changed during the past twelve nouths. This is shown by the continued exports of gold from this country, even at loss. This outflow has been going on for some time, and the repeal of a hundred Sherman laws would not change it Europe realizes that the increase in the value of gold means something serious in the end, and she is fortifying herself against the convulsions that must ensue There are two remedies-one doubt ful and complicated and the other simple. One is for the United States to enter into the competition for gold and get it by paying premium for it. This remedy cannot and will not be carried out. The other-safe and simple-is bimetallism, the policy set forth in the democratic platform-the policy to which the party is solemnly Richmond State: Many democrats will ne doubt criticise Mr. Cleveland for taking into his cabinet so new a member of the great demohis cabinet so new a member of the great demo-cratic host. But the democracy may rest assured that the president-elect has given the matter most serious consideration and that he believes in making the selection he is doing a good thing for the party. If the independents and old republicans who came over to the democratic party—"our hon-orable allies"—are to be recognized, certainly no man could be more acceptable to the de-mocracy than Gresham. nocracy than Gresham.

mocracy than Gresham.

Natchez, Miss., Democrat: There is much in Mr. Cleveland's character for independence and sturdy sense of rectitude to admire and to praise, but in such an instance as that of the appointment of secretary of state, it seems to be an act of extreme independence of custom, propriety and party allegiance to choose Judge Gresham with his emphatically marked republican career and proclivities over the heads of eminent democrats of equal ability and character.

Chattanooga Times: However, discussion of the appointment, from the standpoint of either approval or disapproval, is a waste of energy. Cleveland will do as he pleases, about this and all other matters; and since he pleases to follow the sanctions of his conscience and ripened judgment, there is no danger that he will but the country though science and ripened judgment, there is no danger that he will hurt the country, though he may wound the supersensibilities of many machine politicians. The country is entirely safe under his guiding hand, and that, after all, is the chief consideration.

Mr. Cleveland is the boldest political earth. Mr. Cleveland is the boldest political-leader the country has seen for generations, but he is a very just one, too, and while Judge Gresham's appointment would be a very bold stroke in politics, it does not look as if it would be in accord with Mr. Cleveland's sense of justice. The Advertiser repeats that it is not yet prepared to accept the report as it is not yet prepared to accept the report a

St. Louis Republic, dem.: There are reasons, however, why it would be inadvisable to appoint Judge Gresham secretary of state under Mr. Cleveland. He supported Mr. Cleveland, it is true, and the politicians who say that he did it merely because of his enmity to Harrison have against them the record of his honorable career of loyalty to the interests of the people. But, on the other hand, he declared in his latest public utterland that he is still a republican, and under ance that he is still a republican, and, under the circumstances, his appointment might be but a repetition of the mistake made by John Quincy Adams in appointing Henry Clay ecretary of state.

New York Sun: Everybody may not remen ber that Judge Gresham was a strong sup-porter of the third term of General Grant in 1880. As a stalwart and imperialistic re-publican, he saw no objection to the election of a president who had already occupied the white house for eight years. The conversion of Judge Gresham to genuine, true blue der racy is perhaps one of the most distinguished ervices that Mr. Cleveland has yet rendered to his party.

Why Called Bishop? Editor Constitution—In last Sunday's Con-stitution there appeared a paragraph in re-gard to the use of the title "bishop" affixed stitution there appeared a paragraph in regard to the use of the title "bishop" affixed to the names of those composing the Baptist ministers' conference, of Atlanta.

In reply, we would say that the New Testament recognizes but two offices in the apostolic church. First, bishops, or elders, or pastors, these three titles being applied to the same office, and, second, deacons.

A cateful comparison of the New Testament scriptures will clearly show that bishop, elder and pastor refer to the same officer. Hence, every regularly and scripturally ordained preacher of the gospel is properly called bishop.

In the reports of the proceedings of the Baptist ministers' conference the title was used scriously and was based upon the authority of the New Testament, without any design to ridicule, repreach or guy any person or denomination. The appellation is almost as common among Baptists as that of elder or pastor, and their right to its use rests on divine authority and the practice of the apostles, and not merely on human authority, or upon any institution of appointment of man.

Bishops and deacons are the only officers of a New Testament church.

Who Was the Georgia Officer?

New Britain, Conn., February 10.—Editor Constitution: I desire to ascertain if a certain officer of a Georgia regiment is living. This officer was captured by our forces at the battle of Winchester, in 1864. He was dressed in a uniform adopted by certain Georgia regiments, which much resembled the uniform of our men. We think he belonged to the Twenty-first Georgia, but of that we are not sure. He was then, apparently, thirty-five years of age; weighed, possibly, 160 bounds, and of medium height. At the time of the capture of this officer he was accompanied by a dozen or fifteen confederate soldiers, but Captain Beaton is not able to tell me whether or no any of the others were officers. And now the news comes that Lee Langer, the well-known Athens correspondent of Ta-Constitution, who is also attending the law school of the State university, while holding down the Athens bureau of The Constitution has been elected to the honorable office of president of the Demosthenian Society of the university. This is one of the literary societies of the college and within its walls the cirquience of Toombs and Hill found its early training school. It is a place with much honorabout it with the students to be president of this society, and Mr. Langley has reason to be congratulated by his friends for the leaf this society, and air. with the college boys. "There is no question of Mr. Cleve ing a man of his own head," said Hon. H. it. Carlton, while standing in the rotunds of the Kimbali house, "I was on the enrolling conmittee while in congress, and met him frequently. Before he sent in his celebrated tariff reform message he went out to his country residence and spent three weeks there, in company with Messrs. Cartisle and Mila, and they together made up the message and the Mills bill. Mr. Whitner, when he heard of it, 'remonstrated strongly, but all to so purpose, Mr. Cleveland simply answering: 'The people must be educated up to it.' And sure enough they have been so educated."

On this same subject Judge Richard E. Clark says: "Where a cause—a legal classfor divorce exists it is wiser to grant a divorce than not, upon the principle that practical life is largely made up of a choice between evils, and if a proper case is made it is lesser evil to grant the divorce than 8 compel people to live together. To have mit and wife in a state of separation without the privilege of marrying again brings about a greater evil than to allow them to marry again. That is from the standpoint of society as we find it, and not as we would have it."

Mr. F. B. Graves, vice president and treas Mr. F. B. Graves, vice president and treaturer of the Graves Elevator Company, of Rochester, N. Y., has been at the Aragol fast two or tifree days past. With Mr. Graves are Mrs. Graves and Miss Graves. The gentleman is one of the best known elevator builders in the union and is now on a tour of the south for the purpose of looking into the work. Saturday evening Mr. Graves and those with him were given a dinner at the Aragon by Mr. J. P. Robinson, his southern manager. Yesterday they were driven over the city and last night were dined by Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Keys, of Chicago, who are visiting the city.

Keys, of Chicago, who are visiting the state of the two young men who started from Bost ton last fall to ride to Texas on horseback have tired and given up. The Constitution told of their adventures with the snow, at the time of the blizzard. While the snow was on the ground they put their horses up at Milledge ville, and came on to Atlanta by rail. Whet they could resume their journey, they mounted and started off, but after going a hundred, miles or so, concluded that they had enough so they sold their steeds and started to retain home by rail. They stopped over here for a day and have gone. on.

Dr. Nicholæ Fenn, president of the Rust Medical college of Chicago, and president of the American Co-Medical Association, stoped over in the city for a few hours vesterday and was taken in charge by Dr. J. McF. Gaston, who showed him over the Grady hospital. Afterward the doctor delivered a clinical lecture to the students of the Southern Medical college, which was listened to with much interest. The doctor resumed his journey retrieved a vening.

Hon. Pat Walsh passed through the city last night on his way to Chattanooga when asked about the news he smiled and said: "This is a great country and we are a great people."

Today will be the sheriff's "busy day."
The return day of the court always entails upon the sheriff and his deputies a very heavy amount of work. It will be unusually heavy today, however, on account of the fact that two courts have their return day at the same time. A large number of "valentines" will be served on parties defendant during the day, and the officers of the court will have their hands full.

The grand jury of the county will meet in about two weeks for the purpose of organizing for the term. They will elect a foreman and also a clerk, and will then be ready to investigate the charges that will come up before them. Mr. John Monghan is busy with the work of getting a number of cases ready to come before that body when it meets in March.

Solicitor C. D. Hill has returned from the Classic City, where he made one of his characteristic speeches in the murder trial that called him to that place. He will now be occupied in getting himself ready for the March term of the criminal court, which will convene on the first Monday in next month. The trial of Porter Stocks will probably come up at that time.

THE ARREST OF MR. JOHN J. FALVEY. Case Which Will Come Up in Justice Orr's

J. J. Falvey, the well-known wholesale merchant, who recently sold out to J. W. Phillips & Co., was yesterday served with a warrant, sworn out by A. Fugazzi, a well-known dealer in fruits.

Some weeks ago the readers of The Constitution read the story of the arrest of an Italian named Sansone who went to jail because he was unable to give the bond required of him. A day or two after Sansone succeeded in making bond. At that time Mr. Falvey was yet in business and it was he who signed the bond, having been made secure by Fugazzi. Fugazzi was the possessor of a quantity of good stocks and bonds. These he carried to Mr. Falvey, and surrendered as an idemnity against any loss for his signature to the bond.

Since Mr. Falvey's sell out, Fugazzi has made a demand upon him for the bonds but he has failed to surrender them. This did not suit Fugazzi and yesterday afternoon he swore out a warrant charging Mr. Falvey with the facts stated.

Judge Orr fixed the amount of Mr. Falvey's bond at $1,000. Mr. Falvey was not long in the custody of the officers and went home ready to meet the trial this morning at 10 o'clock. Just who signed the bond no one but those interested knew. When asked as to the signatures on the bond, matter.

"I am not at liberty to tell you. I have promised that I will say nothing about the matter."
"In fact I have not seen the bond," said the judge later, "Bailiff Raysor has the bond as I understand it and he is responsible for the appearance of Mr. Falvey tomorrow and says that he will come out all right."

A WORD TO SAY

About the Story of the Wine Which Rev. Dr.
Sherrill Is Said to Have Swallowed.

The story about the Rev. Dr. Sherrill and the cup of wine in The Constitution yesterday morning has aroused some of the members of his congregation.

Every one in Atlanta who knows the doctor has the utmost confidence in him as a gentleman and as a Christian.

But still some of the members of his congregation are of the opinion that the story did not do the doctor full justice. One of the doctor's stanchest friends, Mr. R. H. Huzza, has written a card replying to the statements made. Here is the card:

Atlanta, Ga., February 13.—Editor Constitution: Will those whose church membership is above question, instead of backbiting, siandering and shrugging their shoulders as if they were saints, come out boldly, like Christian men, at the proper time and place with their names and prefer their charges if they have any against Rev. Dr. Sherrill? We, who have sat under his ministry for four years, have the utmost confidence in him. We know him, we love him as a pastor and as a sincere Christian gentleman, and if he did take wine he did not go behind a door to do it. Can those who are using their slanderous tongues say the same of themseives? Now, gentlemen, come out with your names or shut up your foul mouths, for rest assured the members of his church have the fullest confidence in the Rev. Dr. Sherrill.

These merry monarchs of minstrelsy will appear at the grand for a two-nights engagement, beginning Wednesday. Their shows have always been beautiful, elegant and refined, and they have been patronized by the elite of our theatergoers, on their previous annual visits. This minstrel organization stands head and shoulders avove all other minstrels and they may well be called the Booths of minstrelsy.

They have brought together this season a company far superior to any ever brought here before. They have engaged the best fallent that could be had, and their specialities are marvelous. We feel sure they deserve the title bestowed on them by the amusement loving public: "The merry millionaire monarchs of minstrelsy."

A GREAT CONVENTION NEXT SUMMER.

Rev. J. C. Collins, the Secretary of the Organization, Will Reach Atlanta Friday and Speak in Regard to the Work.

During the early summer Atlanta will have the pleasure of entertaining within her gates one of the largest assemblies of Christian workers that has ever met in the south, if not in the whole country.

It will be the world's convention of Christian missionaries and evangelists, and as the name implies it will be an assemblage of Christian workers from all parts of the earth.

anne implies it will be an assemblage of Christian workers from all parts of the earth.

There will probably be as many as a thousand authorized delegates in the city, but the international character of the convention, apart from the large number of delegates that will be in attendance, will make it a most unusual gathering.

The fact that the world's fair will open in May will cause a large number to attend the convention who would otherwise remain at home. For that reason it is estimated that the aftendance will be much larger than it has ever been in the history of that organization. This should be a matter of congratulation to the citizens of Atlanta, as the convention will bring to the city the representatives of every nation in the world, who will have the opportunity to observe the rapid strides that Atlanta has made in the lines of growth and enterprise.

and enterprise,

Mr. J. F. Barclay, who is one of the most active Christian workers in this city, and who has attended several of these conventions, was seen yesterday in regard to the meeting here next summer.

"As a member of this body," said he, "I have attended three conventions, one at Hartford, Cohn., one at Washington, D. C., and one at Boston, Mass., and I must say that in many respects they are the most remarkable religious meetings I ever attended.

"The Boston Globe in a long editorial referred to the work of the last convention which met in that city. It commented upon the business-like tone that characterized the deliberations of the body, and spoke of it as evoking the hearty admiration of all classes. The growth and progress of the gospel was fully discussed and the means of promoting the cause of Christianity in foreign lands was the subject of earnest and eloquent deliberation."

Endorsement of the Press. The Christian Union, in speaking of the work of the same convention, used the following editorial comment:

The meeting of the convention, like all its predecessors, has been a grand demonstation of real Christian unity, and of the power of Christian key in reaching and saving the lost, and as a solvent of grave proplems that contains the contains the contains and saving the cost, and as a solvent of grave proplems that con-Christian leve in reaching and saving the lost, and as a solvent of grave problems that confront the church in these latter days. It was also a magniticent illustration of the power of lay effort, when wisely directed, in adamenting the church's influence and in overcoming the gigantic forces of evil. * * * * Few organizations in our land are doing better work for the churches, and for the great outlying masses, generally unreached by the churches, than this convention of Cristian workers. * * It is the inspiration of very much of the best missionary work of the time, and makes its influence feit in different ways all over the world.

Prominent Men Interested.

Many of the most prominent men in the country are members of this organization, and their devotion to the work is manifested by the way in which they attend the conventions and the active part which they take in their deliberations.

"Among the members of the convention," said Mr. Barclay, "is Mr. W. H. Howland, of Toronto, Canada. He is the ex-mayor of his city and one of the leading business men of his section of the country. He never misses one of the meetings and always takes cn active part in the exercises."

ways takes an active part in the exercises."

Mr. H. B. Warner, of Washington, D. C., who is he president of the Washington Loan and Trust Company, and a man of very large means, was also in attendance upon the last convention. He delivered a magnificent address on the subject: "Religion as a Practical Thing." Coming, as it did, from one of the most successful business men of the country, it produced a profound impression, and was the subject of broad editorial comment.

Visit of Mr. Collins.

Visit of Mr. Collins. Rev. J. C. Collins, of New Haven, Conn., who has been the secretary of the convention since its organization, will reach Atlanta on Friday morning.

The object of his visit will be to confer with the ministers and citizens generally who are interested in the work in regard to the meeting of the convention in this city.

He will probably speak at one of the leading churches on the south side next Sunday morning, and at one of the Principal churches on the north side in the evenpal churches on the north side in the evening.

The purposes and objects of the convention will be distinctly set forth and the matter will be thoroughly explained in all of its interesting details.

On Monday morning Mr. Collins will meet with the preachers of the city at the Evangelical Ministers' Association in the basement of the First Methodist church for the purpose of securing their aid and co-operation. He will remain in the city for several days and while here will arrange as far as possible for the great meeting which will occur in the summer.

A letter received by Mr. Barclay from Mr. Collins informs him that Mr. Warner, of Washington city, will probably come with him next Friday.

In that event there will probably be a joint meeting of all of the ministers in the city next Monday night to confer with these two gentlemen in regard to the work of the convention.

DR. SCOTT TONIGHT.

He Will Deliver His Interesting Lecture in the Dr. W. J. Scott will deliver his lecture on the "Campaign of 1860" tonight in the basement of the First Methodist church. The lecture was to have been delivered last Friday night, but owing to the inclement weather and the ill health of Dr. Scott it was decided to put it off until tonight.

It will, therefore, be delivered without fail this evening at at 8 o'clock. The lecture will no doubt be greeted with a large audience, as the subject of the lecture is one of the most instructive and interesting character. ent of the First Methodist Church.

The lecture will no doubt be a valuable contribution to the historical papers of the day and Dr. Scott has intimated that he intends to put it in a durable form for preservation.

The tickets which were sold for the lecture last week will be good for tonight.

THE MEETING WAS DRY. The Police Board Entertain Themselves with

Purely routine business occupied the right honorable police board at their mouthly session last night.

Officers' reports, bills for the month, a word or two about the new police station, a suggestion here and there about the conduct of the department the addition of four supernumeraries to the list, and then adjournment.

A full board was present with the single exception of Commissioner Brotherton, which, considering the fact that he has but one more meeting before his term expires, was remarked upon.

Reports of Chief Connolly and the four cap-tain were read. Chief Connolly's report contained a new feature in that every case made during the month was accounted for, the specified charge, and the disposition being Ohief Connoily recommended that the beard urge the council to appropriate money in July to add at least liventy more officers to the force. He also recommended that four more men be added to the supernumerary list. The names recommended were: E. A. Lampkin, J. W. Adams, Julius Stroup and K. T. Wilson. WOULD BE GOOD FOR SOUTHERN LINES.

Judge Speer Issues a Pass Which Stops the Central's Plyer-Freight Cars Were Cranky Yesterday.

If it be true that the Sante Fe has bought the Memphis and Little Rock railroad it is a good thing for this section. Heretofore the Gould systems have controlled the gateways to the west and there was no competition from the Mississippi river into the great western country.

That was Jay Gould's policy. He shut the southern lines off at the river and they had to work with him on his own terms. The Little Rock and Memphis was bottled up completely. Ten days ago it was re-

The names recommended were: E. A. Lampkin, J. W. Adams, Julius Stroup and B. T. Wilson. Each of these men were formerly connected with the force.

The matter of insurance for the new police station came up. Chairman English stated that he had placed $25,000 on the building, which was divided between the Atlanta Home, and the United Underwriters. He wanted to know if the amount was large enough. The board was of the opinion that the sum was large enough are enough. Mayor Goodwin remarked that the members of the department were deserving of praise for their work in assisting the relief committee during the cold weather. In the same connection he said, with a significant smile, that he would like to have a roster of the force. "I would like to know the members of the force with a view to the future, Its well enough, you know."

"Yes." said Mr. Gramling, "we all need a list with a view to that general shaking up." Chief Connolly said he would prepare a list for each of the commissioners. Somebody remarked that the election would occur in April.

The case against Detective Crim was postponed. Chief Connolly said he didn't think there was anything in it. up completely. Ten days ago it was reported that the Illinois Central had been trying to buy the line. Its sale to the Sante Fe will mean far more to the south Although He Was Badly Wanted on Tw Charges in Alabama.

Ala Sante Fe will mean far more to the south than ownership by the Illinois Central would. The Santa Fe is the largest system in the United States, having a mileage of between nine and ten thousand miles. It is a powerful system and the lines on this side of the Mississippi hope that the report about the purchase by the Santa Fe is correct. The Santa Fe proposes to build from Paris, Tex., to Little Rock and close the gap. Then the Richmond and Danville, the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham and the East Tennessee systems will have an independent outlet into Texas and the remote southwest and with the Santa Fe's connections can reach the Goodwater, Ala.

Skipper is wanted there on two counts, one of which is taking an express package and the other is larceny. He was arrested a week ago on telegrams from Goodwater. The official immediately ago on telegrams from Goodwater. The officers at that place were notified immediately after Skipper wals arrested and several urgent messages were received in reply by Chief Connolly asking that Skipper be held until an officer could arrive.

Saturday morning Skipper's father reached here and took out a writ of habeas corpus to secure the release of his soil. The case was heard by Ordinary Calhoun and he ordered that unless the officers got here by by clock yesterday morning that Skipper should be released. Chief Connolly telegraphed the Alabama officers of this and again they wired him to hold Skipper, but he could hold him no onger fifth yesterday morning, and the officers not having arrived by that time the young man was released. the Santa Fe's connections can reach the

The Judge's Pass Goes.!

On Saturday Judge Speer appointed Mr. Marion Erwin, receiver of the Dover railroad. Mr. Erwin left Macon in the afternoon on the Central's fast train to go down and take possession. The judge had issued a pass for the receiver and had given an order of-court for the train to stop. When the receiver pulled out his pass, Captain Beeebe, the conductor, said that is was different from anything he had seen but it was good for the round trip, if it did not come from the general superintendent's office.

The officers of the court are all ignorant as to the whereabouts of Judge Marshall J. Clarke. He left the city last week ostensibly for a brief sojourn in the land of flowers. His object in leaving the city was to obtain a short respite from the exacting duties of his office. Instead of going to Florida, however, it is rumored that the judge is at present reveiling amid the beauties of the American Paris. The consensus of opinion, as there is no direct information bearing on the subject is, that Judge Clarke is now in the city of New Orleans, whither he has gone for the purpose of attending mardi gras. When Judge Clarke leaves the city he very seldom leaves any clue behind him as to where he is going, his purpose being to avoid as much as possible, the unpleasantness of being hampered by the mails, and to enjoy his vacation unmolested. He will return to the city next week, and will be on hand in time for the opening of his court, which meets on the first Monday in next month. Superintendent Winder, of the Georgia, Carolina and Northern, has gone to Baltimore, where President Robinson, of the Seaboard system, has called a meeting of his superintendents and general officers.

The freight cars got cranky yesterday. Two went off the Danville's track seventy miles north of Atlanta yesterday morning and two missed a switch on the Central a few miles out of Savannah. Thus it came that two fast flying trains, the New York vestibule and the "Nancy Hanks" came in an hour or two late. They are both magnificent trains.

NO PULLMANS TO BE PARKED.

Excursion Parties Going to the World's Fair Cannot Hold Sleepers There.

Cannot floid sleepers There.

The Pullman Company will not allow its sleepers to be parked at Chicago during the world's fair. Cars will be chartered for the trip to Chicago but as soon as that city is reached the occupants will have to get out and seek shelter elsewhere.

If it were not for this provision, it would be possible for large parties of from thirty to fifty to see the fair cheaply. Pullmans are chartered for $40 a day. A party of forty going to the inauguration can secure a sleeper and have it sidetracked when it reaches Washington. As long as the party pays $40 a day, the car is at its disposal, and the excursionists can have a room and a bed, though crowded, for $1 a day. The Pullmans think that there will be such a demand for sleeping cars during the summer that they cannot afford to park any cars. The new sleepers with sixteen sections will accommodate sixty-four passengers if they double up two in a berth. These large sleepers will be rented for $40 a day.

last night at its initial performance by the Ricketts-Mathews company.

There was one of the largest and most representative houses that have been accorded the company, and the play went off very smoothly, indeed.

The scenery used is very appropriate and showed up to splendid advantage.

Mr. Ricketts as Sandy was accorded rounds of applause for his good work. In this part he is liked very much. Miss Dale, as the school marm, was very pleasantly received by the audience. Miss Stevenson, in the dual role of Nancy Williams and Billy Piper, is too highly complimented. Miss Stevenson only had a very short time in which to study the character, but her essayal of the role bespeaks the talented young lady she is.

Mr. Clinton, as the judge, brought down the house "in his glorious climate of Callfornia." The dance of the judge. Miss Robinson and Miss Taylor took well, especially in the gallery. Little Lois Day did very nicely the child's part. The balance of the cast was acceptable enough. Matinee Wednesday afternoon.

Colonel Stahlman is still in Washington laboring with the congressmen over the railroad legislation which is pending. The bill requiring all the roads in the country to equip their cars with new couplers within the next two years is worrying the managers, who declare that they cannot afford to change in that time. Many roads have been putting some good couplers on their cars for two years and have their rolling stock fairly well equipped.

THE NEW YORK MARKET.

NEW YORK, February 13.—Business in he stock market showed considerable further outraction today, but traders who monopo-ized a great bulk of dealings were inclined to the bull side on the impression that somelized a great bulk of dealings were inclined to the bull side on the impression that something would result from the conference of the secretary of the treasury with bankers that would would be favorable to the stock market. Prices were, therefore, bid up on shorts, as there was little or no disposition to buy for fong account, and even less to part with holdings aiready acquired. There were no material movements for the day, apart from those in Industrial stocks, although Omaha, Western Union and Rock Island, at times, showed considerable strength. Fluctuations in raliroad shares, however, were in all cases but first named, confined to a ferational range, and final changes, while generally advanced, are, in few cases, for more than 1-2 per cent. Tobacco was again the chief feature and was subjected to some wide and violent fluctuations. After oppening down 11-8 per cent, at 108, it dropped immediately to 104, rallied to 106 1-2, but again dropped to 104, from which it rallied to 105 1-2 at the close, showing a net loss of 3-4 per cent for the day. These changes were susceptible of no explanation. Expectation dividend on cotton oil made it one of the leading strong stocks of the day, and and on unusually large transactions it rose to 50, closing 17-8 per cent. The only other stocks to show important fluctuations was good, and it closed near its top figure with a gain of 1 per cent. The only other stocks to show important fluctuations was Colorado fuel, which was bought largely for inside account, and at 711-2 it showed a net gain of 71-2 per cent.

Lehman Bros.' Cotton Letter.

By Private Wire to B. W. Martin, Manager.

MEW YORK, February 13—The meeting referred to in our last letter in Manchester seems evidently to have been without any favorable results, our correspondents this morning cabling as that both sides refuse to make absolutely any concessions, and thus it is that there seems to be today no chance for any immediate settlement of the existing labor troubles. The result of this meeting has evidently again discouraged holders in Liverpool, as indicated by the quotions which we this morning received from that side, the market there being about 5-64d lower. In response to this decline we here opened about $2 points down, and then held remarkably sidedly with but very nominal fluctuation until late in the day, when a further desippointment on account of the heavier receipts at the ports and the larger estimates from New Orleans tomorrow of 11,000 to 12,000 bales, comparing with $,700 for Tuesday last week, resulted in a further decline of about 19 points. The explanation of the larger receipts to be received New Orleans temorrow is stated to be owing to Mardi Gras. Telegrams from that source say the follows ing days will show a corresponding failing off. The renewed discouraging Liverpool cables have caused much of the better feeling so prevalent here Saturday last to be lost again; and, while at present prices sellers are not many, still there is a certain disjnclination to buy, so that with but a moderate further liquidation on the part of long stere does not seem to be sufficient demand to sustain values even at the decline. The bears today also have taken advantage of a New York Times editorial which states that there is no reason to hope for the defeat of the anti-option bill. We states ho his protein bill. However, it the present temper of the marfet all such advices simply tend to dislocarten holders and deter fresh buying.

In that article General Evans declares that there are some lines of manufacturing that ought not to be started in the city because the local environments were not suitable for its successful manipulation.

One of the lines of enterprise that ought not to be started, in the mind of General Evans, was the making of tile roofing While there is plenty of the clay necessary for this manufactury in the state, General Evans, declares that it is not available in Atlants to the extent of warranting a vast outlay of capital for the building of a factory.

vast outlay of capital for the building of a factory.

Dr. J. W. Spencer, of the state geological department was seen yesterday by a Constitution reporter and asked about the matter from a scientific point of view.

"It is a mistake to think that tile roofing cannot be manufactured from the clay in this part of the state. While I do not know positively about the clays in the immediate vicinity of Atlanta, I do know from my own personal examination that there is the finest kind of clay for this peculiar purpose between this cuty and Rome and this would not be very inaccessible to a manufacturing com-personal examination that there is the finest kind of clay for this peculiar purpose between this city and Rome and this would not be very inaccessible to a manufacturing company desiring to make Atlanta its distributing point for the handling of the products of its factory.

"In this connection it may be of interest for me to state that I regard the clay products of this section of the state could be made to enjoy more possibilities than most any other geological interest in the state. Vitrified brick as a pavement is no longer an experiment, but a brilliant success, and this kind of brick can be made to perfection in Georgia, especially in the neighborhood of Rome, where I found the clay of a peculiarly adaptable nature for the manufacture of these brick. There is money in such industries and I am receiving letters every now and then from capitalists asking me about it all. You see the supply of this peculiar kind of clay is playing out in some sections. I was talking with the state geologist of New Jersey the other day and was told by him that it was no longer abundant in that state. It is in great demand for the upbuilding of the great cities, all of which in these days done with the best quality of brick, is growing to a wonderful demand for the best clays.

"In the report that I am soon to file for the consideration of the geological board of the state I have taken up much space with the discussion of this question of clay manufactories of such interest to the state of Georgia. It is a wonder to me that the clays of northern Georgia have not been found out by the manufacturing world before this time. They are of the rarest and best kind. They have just enough iron in them to make them particularly suitable for the manufacturing of vitrified brick. Most clays have lime in them and this is not the best kind for making brick. The lime makes the fusion easy and the brick is not of the most durable quality.

Hill v. The State. Criminal law. Continuance. Jurar. Verdict. New trial. Before Judge Harris. Carroll superior court.

1. As it affirmatively appeared in the showing for a continuance that the accused had other witnesses by whom he could prove the same facts which he expected to prove by the absent witness, and as the latter was brought into court under an attachment in time for his evidence to have been taken before the trial closed and he was not introduced as a witness, the refusal to grant a continuance on the ground of his absence is not cause for a new trial. Allen v. The State, 10 Ga. 86; Anderson v. The State, 72 Ga. 98.

2. Although the state has examined some of the jurors to uphold the verdict, public policy requires that none of the jurors shall be heard to impeach it even in reply to those who have testified in its vindication.

3. Under all the competent facts in evidence by affidavits, there was no necessary cause for setting aside the verdict on the ground that one of the jurors was not fair and impartial. The statements imputed to him, as having been made before the trial, he did not remember, and his character as an upright and intelligent juror was fully vindicated. The statement, if made, indicate bias or prejudice against the accused or a fixed opinion of his guilt, but, under his explanation, they could be treated rather as rash and incautious remarks founded upon mere rumor and not expressive of any settled or permanent opinion which would not readily yield to evidence. Regarding the presiding judge as in the position of a trier of the juror's competency, it does not affirmatively appear that his decision was erroneous. That he ought to be so regarded, see Ray v. The State, 15 Ga. 223, and Brinkley v. The State, 5 Ga. 236.

4. There was evidence sufficient to justify the verdict and there was no error in over-

A ground in a motion for a new trial alleging that "the court committed error in that portion of his charge to the jury which stated the theory of the state, and the circumstances relied on by the state to connect the defendant with the alleged crime, without stating the theory of the defendant and circumstances relied on by him to establish his innocence," is vague and indefinite. The movant should have set forth those portions of the charge referred to in the language above quoted, and the theories, respectively, of the state and the accused. In order to enable this court to understand and pass upon the alleged errors complained of.

(a) So far as this case is concerned, it does not appear that the accused had any theory other than a general denial of guilt, and the charge given was full, fair and impartial.

Colonel A. E. Buck asks for the publication of the following:

Atlanta, Ga., February 13.—Colonel A. E. Buck. Dear sir: Please accept thanks for calling my attention to the statement in The Atlanta Constitution yesterday, purporting to give the contents of a letter from Dr. J. W. Stone, as read by Colonel Livingston in congress last Saturday, charging you with manipulation of the examining boards and having the claims of hundreds of negroes placed upon the pension rolls. I do not see how Dr. Stone could possibly make such an absurd statement and I think he must be wrongly quoted. He, as well as every other physician who has been a member of the examining board here, must know that there is no truth in such a statesment and I must decline to believe that he would be gnility of making such an outrageously false charge.

You can make such use of the above as you see fit. Very truly yours, Pres. Atlanta Board Examining Surgeons. I concur in the above.

C. M. PAINE, M.D.,

Sec. Atlanta Board Examining Surgeons.

I fully concur in the above.

A. P. EBBERT,

Treas. Atlanta Board Examining Surgeons.

"I am confident that tile roofing can be manufactured most successfully in that part of the state between Rome and Atlanta. The clays I found in those sections are good for this kind of work. Tile roofing is better than the slate. It will not crack when heated by a fire on the other side of the street like slate roofing will at times. It is very durable and makes a cosy, nice looking roof.

"I am of the opinion that Atlanta could well be taken as the location of a factory, or at least the headquarters of a factory of this kind, for I know that the clay can be found not many miles from Atlanta."

Dr. Spencer takes interestingly about the clay of the state and says it has many possibilities which when realized will do more than anything else has done for the development and growth of Georgia.

The County Instances.

Captain S. D. Bradwell, of the state

Captain S. D. Bradwell, of the state school department, is in the midst of the work of getting the county institutes organized for the new year.

He is contemplating great results from these intermingling of the teachers this year. These institutes are calculated to do much towards bringing the teachers together from time to time for the purpose of discussing methods of teaching this branch or that Commissioner Bradwell says the institutes did a vast amount of good last year and that they will do more this year. The teachers of the state seem to enjoy them very much and enter upon them with the spirit of making them every bit as profitable to them as they are intended to be by the department.

to them as they are intended to be by the department.

Commissioner Bradwell is also engaged in making arrangements for the taking of the state school census, which he has recently been authorized to take by the state educational board.

This census will show up the schools as they are moving along today in comparison with how they were moving along five years ago, when the last census was taken. It goes without saying that Georgia will show a vast improvement over the last report.

MOORE IS CAUGHT.

Is Jailed in Tampa, Fla.

TATTOOING ON HIS ARM BETRAYED HIM.

As Stated in Saturday's Constitution He Has Been Located for Some Time. Found with the Hobo Queen.

John Moore, chief lieutenant of the noto rious Delk gang, who escaped from the Dade coal mines, in which he was serving out a sentence of ten years, has been caught out a sentence of ten years, has been caught at Tampa, Fla., is now in the county jail at that place and will be brought back to Atlanta as soon as an officer can go to Tampa and bring him here.

A telegram announcing his arrest was received by Chief Connolly yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The telegram cannot form W.S. Boylica shift of relieved.

came from W. S. Bowles, chief of police of Moore was arrested yesterday morning, and the question of his identity settled be-yond all doubt by two marks made on his arm with India ink. These tattoo marks assured the officers of Tampa that they had the right man, and when a description of Moore was shown him bearing these identification marks, he weakened and admitted that he was the man.

When Moore was a wild, roving house breaker here in this city, he associated with a crowd of adventurous spirits, and one of them tattooed on his right arm a heart and an anchor. The indelible, incrasable characters made by this changeless ink, remained on Moore's arm, and when he entered the coal mines some months ago, the keeper, noticing them, and making a note of their presence in the description book, told him that if he were to ever escape, it would be an easy matter to establish his identity. The keeper's words proved prophetic, and now it has come to pass that he was betrayed by the tattooed characters on his arm. characters made by this changeless ink, identity. The keeper's words proved prophetic, and now it has come to pass that he was betrayed by the tattooed characters on his arm.

Last Thursday Chief Connolly received a telegram from the Tampa officials asking if John Moore was wanted in Georgia and stating that he was in that city and could be arrested it wanted.

Chief Connolly made immediate reply by letter stating all the facts. As soon as the letter was received at Tampa, Moore whs arrested. Saturday's Constitution told of the fact that Moore had been located and that his arrest was expected to be announced almost any hour.

The announcement came in a telegram received just after noon yesterday. While in Florida Moore had been going under the name of Harry Glenn and gave that name to the officers when arrested. He is slender, dark-haired, dark complexioned and has marks about the face which render his identification easy. The officers were spre of their man when they first arrested him, and upon carrying him to the police station and examining the tattoo marks, what little doubt they may have entertained gave way to cartainty. So absolutely unanswerable were the facts against him, that the prisoner had to weaken.

Chief of Detectives Wright said last night that he has known the whereabouts of Moore for two weeks, and he is confident that Tom Delk is there also.

Moore went to Tampa to be with Jessie that he has known the whereabouts of Moore for two weeks, and he is confident that Tom Delk is there also.

Moore went to Tampa to be with Jessie Bone, the notorious hobo queen, who lives in that city in imposing style. She has a gaudy home, and has with her several lesser lights from this city. The detectives here say that Lou McMannaman went there to meet Delk and Moore two weeks ago. Living with the notorious hobo queen, it is not remarkable that Moore was discovered and caught. Jessie Bone has been there for several moaths and it is said that the two escapes went there to hide, knowing they could find protection under the shelter of the queen's palace. It is thought that Tom Delk will be caught in a day or so, as he is in the same city where Moore was caught.

Chief Bowles, of Tampa, gets $100 for his cate, that being the amount of the reward offered by Mr. Jullus L. Brown. There is now no doubt of Moore having been in Atlanta about a month after his escape as was thought by the police force here.

Nothing could give greater pleasure to the Atlanta police than the capture of Moore. He is regarded by them as one of the strewiest, most daring and desperate burglars that ever operated in Atlanta.

The great value of Hood's Sarsaparlila as a semely for catagraf is youched for by thou Since Dr. Hathaway & Go. opened their office in this city they have been highly complimented upon opening, a speciality practice, which is so essential to the people of Atlanta and vicinity. The finary patients who have taken treatment during the short time the doctors have been located here express great satisfaction in the result obtained, many saying, "If T could only had this treatment before I would have been well long ago and saved myself a great deal of suffering." The methods of treatment employed by Dr. Hathaway & Co. are new and effective, doing away with many of the old-fashioned methods of cutting and burning and other severe forms of treatment which are old and in a majority of cases do more harm than good. The moderate charges made by Dr. Hathaway & Co. are an invitation to the people, as the majority of doctors who treat diseases peculiar to men and women, private skin, blood and numerous diseases, charge exhorbitently, but Dr. Hathaway & Co.'s charges are low and reasonable and within the means of all. Consult them if in need of treatment and save valuable time.
